Scalesburn is in the northern part of Wick, north of the harbour and Wick River. The camera point is on the corner forming the junction of The Shore, Port Dunbar and Scalesburn roads. The steep road is a busy road down into town, used by cars and pedestrian shoppers and school children. The camera was set next to a lamppost where a small track leaves the road and runs up beside housing, beside a crash barrier protecting a steep drop down to the harbour area. The camera was set midway between the first two left-hand posts supporting the crash barrier, the tripod straddling the barrier itself.
